Welcome Message

Dear Colleagues,

On behalf of the Organising Committee, it is our very great pleasure to announce the 13th International Veterinary Immunology Symposium (IVIS2023) to be held in the Kruger National Park, South Africa.

The Kruger Park and surrounding rural areas are emblematic of both the opportunities and threats that co-exist at the interface of human societies, their domestic animals, free-living wildlife, and the environments that they inhabit. In the context of global change, sustainable improvement of livestock systems and disease control are essential for the commercial livestock sector, subsistence farming, food safety, human wellbeing, and the conservation of ecologically and economically important ecosystems. In this spirit, the IVIS2023 will address the challenging research issues raised for veterinary science in a One World – One Health perspective.

The IVIS2023 will bring together experts from across the globe to share exciting results and insights in the field of veterinary science and immunology, including biological mechanisms underlying host-pathogen interactions and specificities, vaccine and therapeutic strategies, innate and protective immunity, disease diagnosis and control, reagent and methodological developments. This will be an opportunity for delegates from all involved sectors to engage with leaders in the field and network in the comfort of a state-of-the-art conference facility situated in the heart of one of Africa's iconic game reserves.

Association with IVIS2023 as a donor, sponsor or exhibitor is an excellent way to reach a focussed and captive audience for demonstrating your interest in the increasingly important area of veterinary immunology research which is vital for the development of innovative strategies to limit disease burden globally, and enhance the health of domestic, companion, and wildlife species.

IVIS2023 offers a variety of engagement opportunities suitable for large as well as small organisations. With this event held for the first time in Africa, greater participation from the region is expected due to accessibility and affordability. Please use this unique opportunity to participate in this world event on local shores by selecting from the options in this prospectus.

Our plans for the symposium will necessarily be informed by the unpredictable consequences of the COVID-19 pandemic. Nonetheless, we encourage you to mark your calendars and save the dates for IVIS2023.

We look forward to welcoming you all to South Africa in 2023.

Industry involvement is one of the key elements to the success of IVIS2023 in South Africa. Your presence and contribution enhance the overall scientific impacts of the symposium – through promotional opportunities, scientific exchange, and community engagement.

In principle, all sponsors will be treated on a “first come, first serve” basis and will be mentioned in all Symposium Publications, such as the Final Programme and the Symposium Website.

Sponsors are welcome to offer additional events; however, these may not take place parallel to any official Symposium Events.

Should sponsors wish to organize an event before, during or after the symposium, written consent from IVIS2023 LOC is required.

We look forward to working with our industry partners to help achieve their respective symposium goals and objectives for the IVIS2023 in South Africa.

To participate at IVIS2023, please complete the application form on the last page and email back to SAVETCON.
